

REPORT LILY BRETT

"I loved being a guest of the Krems Literature and Wine Festival. For such a small city, Krems hosts a comprehensive and complex arts festival. This cultural event involves the local community and also draws an audience from other cities. It is very impressive. I had the good fortune of having Josef Ostermayer, the Austrian Minister of Culture at my reading, in Krems. Everyone involved in the Krems Literature and Wine Festival couldn't have been more helpful. Being in residence gave me a very full and meaningful sense of being part of the Krems community. It was a sheer pleasure to participate in this festival."